

RAPHAEL SUSEWIND

Doctoral Candidate (Universität Bielefeld) and Associate (University of Oxford)
195/55 Jagat Narayan Road, Lucknow 226018, India — susewind@uni-bielefeld.de

Since 2006, I obtained three Cusanus scholarships (German federal scholarships for 1% top batch), two DAAD scholarships and a number of grants from various bodies. My teaching portfolio includes roughly 200 contact hours in six undergraduate and one graduate classes.

2010→	University of Oxford: Associate, Contemp. South Asia Studies (CSASP)
2010→	Universität Bielefeld: Doctoral Candidate, Social Anthropology (BGHS); PhD on the formation of Muslim belonging in Lucknow (co-supervised in London; field research in affiliation with Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi)
2010–2011	Universität Marburg: Research Fellow in Comparative Politics and International Development Studies ; teaching and research responsibilities
2009–2010	University of Oxford: Master in Contemporary India (MSc; grade: 70); dissertation about Indian diplomatic culture; options: Hindi & Urdu
2006–2009	Universität Marburg: Diplom in Political Science (MA equiv.; grade: 1,0); minors: sociology and conflict research; option: Hindi; empirical thesis on Muslim peace activists in Gujarat, India (fieldwork in 2008 while at the School for International Training / SIT, Jaipur)
2004–2006	Universität Marburg: Vordiplom in Political Science (BA equiv.; grade: 1,0); minors: sociology and conflict research; option: theology

REFEREED PUBLICATIONS (full list at <http://writing.raphael-susewind.de>)

Being Muslim and working for peace; New Delhi: Sage (forthcoming monograph)

“Opfer” und “Aktivistin”: zwei Muslima aus Gujarat ringen mit der Ambivalenz des Sakralen; in: Internationales Asienforum 42(3-4), 2011

How “integrated” is the Indian Foreign Service? The example of Farakka, 1982-1997; in: Journal of International Relations 8(2), 2010

WORK EXPERIENCE AND LANGUAGE SKILLS

summer 2008	internship at the German Embassy , Dhaka, Bangladesh
summer 2007	internship at the development agency Misereor , Aachen
spring 2005	internship at the local NGO CARAVAN , Mingora, Pakistan
Languages	German (mother tongue), English (fluent), Hindi & Urdu (intermediate)